FIVE INJURED AS ICE, SLUSH COAT HIGHWAYS

Salem Group's Car Skids From Highway and Overturns

EAST LIVERPOOL JUROR WRECKED

State Patrolmen Receive Many Reports On Skidding Cars

Residents of Salem and neighboring districts tasted real winter weather today for the first time this season when thermometers slid to the freezing mark and snow flurries whitened the ground.

As usual, the wintry weather made highways treacherous and today several accidents were reported to the state highway patrol and sheriff's office. Five Salem persons were known to have been injured.

Car Skids, Overturns

The quietest reported hurt included Ralph Sturgeon, 53, whose automobile skidded on the Lisbon road three miles north of Lisbon, shortly before 8:30 a. m., and overturned in a field. The car landed upright and the injured were taken to a Lisbon doctor by a passing motorist.

Sturgeon suffered an injury to the chest and shoulder.

Others hurt were:

James Seederly, fractured ribs and jaw; Taylor, fractured ribs and arm; Stephen Tarzan, Jr., arm and shoulder injury and bruises to head and face.

Paul Mead, bruises.

The part was enroute to the county courthouse at Lisbon where they are employed. Seederly, Taylor and Tarzan are connected with a PWA delinquent tax analysis project, while Sturgeon is employed on the county-wide WPA project. Mead was on business for the Salem blanket street project.

In another accident, E. L. Jester of East Liverpool, escaped with minor bruises when his car skidded on Route 30, one and one-half miles south of Lisbon this morning and rolled over an embankment.

He was enroute to Lisbon for jury duty. Miss Olive Hammond of Millville, employee in the probate court office, brought Jester into Lisbon.

Patrol Gets Reports

The state patrol reported that it had received at least 10 reports on automobiles which had skidded off highways as a result of the slippery conditions of the road this morning.

Yesterday noon the temperature in Salem stood at 35 degrees. By midnight it had dropped four degrees and at 6 a. m. today was 31. The 10 inch precipitation was enough to give the highways a treacherous coating of ice and snow.

Walkout Delayed

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21—A walkout of 35,000 AFL studio craftsmen, postponed for this morning, was postponed at least temporarily pending further conferences between producers and unionists.

Two-Gun Girl Slays Lawyer

Miss Corinne Maddox

Quietly admitting that she had shot and killed Brooks Coffman, Dallas, Tex., attorney, Miss Corinne Maddox, 26, also of Dallas, today calmly awaited her fate. Blazing away with two guns—a .32 and a .36 caliber pistols, Miss Maddox shot Coffman, whom she encountered on a downtown Dallas street. Coffman was to have gone on trial next month on charges of having stabbed Miss Maddox some months ago.

Dentist Dies After "Frozen Sleep" Aid

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21—Dr. Kolman C. Horvath, Lorain, O., dentist, died yesterday in Temple university hospital where he had been taken to receive the "frozen sleep" treatment for cancer.

Dr. Horvath, who was 33, entered the hospital more than a month ago, and at first showed some improvement after the refrigeration treatment.

Dr. Temple Fay, who developed the "frozen sleep" method with Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, said "the patient was a very sick man when he came to us."

"He had been operated on in Ohio and also had been X-rayed," Dr. Fay said, "and his case was regarded as hopeless. He got along well here for a time and we were able to relieve his pain."

Mount Grid Coach Speaks At Lisbon

LISBON, Nov. 21—Harry Gelitz, football coach at Mount Union college, was principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Lisbon High school football team last night in the American Legion hall.

Supt. of Schools H. C. Leonard served as toastmaster. Approximately 50 persons attended.

Pencil set gifts were presented Lisbon's football coach, Howard Ziemke, and Assistant Coach Earl Vanaman. The presentations were made in behalf of the team by Clem McGoogan, quarterback.

The Mount Union coach, in his talk, urged his listeners, particularly the school youths, always to set a high objective, or goal.

Texas Lawyer Slain By Girl He Stabbed

DALLAS, Nov. 21—Blond Corinne Maddox, whose blazing guns killed Brooks C. Coffman, 40-year-old criminal lawyer, is free under $75,000 bond.

Coffman was facing trial on charges he stabbed Miss Maddox, 26, with an ice pick because she refused to go to California with him. He was married and had three children.

He fell to the sidewalk on a busy main street, screaming "don't kill me, Corinne," as Miss Maddox drew two guns from under her coat and fired yesterday. She was charged with murder.

The grand jury was to investigate the shooting.

THANKSGIVING BRINGS POULTRY SHOW TO SALEM

Ohio - National Display Opens Officially Tomorrow

INITIAL ENTRIES ALREADY ON HAND

Clinic and Discussion Are Scheduled for Friday Night

Regardless of the Thanksgiving "stuffin'" in your "tummy" the next few days, a fine chicken and bird show will be staged in Salem for your benefit, commencing tomorrow.

The exhibit—the Ohio-National Poultry show—will continue all the rest of the week, including Sunday, at the Arrow Feed Service building on S. Ellsworth ave.

First Entries Here

The first entries arrived yesterday and officials of the show predicted that 800 or more fowls would be placed on exhibition. The first entry was from Tennessee. Others are expected from as far west as Seattle, Wash. Some are coming from Texas.

Exhibited in the poultry show will be various breeds of chickens, bantams and even pigeons. There will be a scarcity of turkeys for reasons with which the public is familiar, it is explained by show sponsors.

Batteries of chicken coops have been erected in the building and space has been reserved for equipment displays. The show, opening officially tomorrow, will continue daily from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Judging of the birds will take place Wednesday.

How It Was Named

The combination of the first annual Ohio Poultry show and the National Bantam show provides the local event its name—the Ohio-National Poultry show. Basil Rough of East Liverpool is general chairman.

A clinic and discussion period for practical poultrymen and fanciers will be held at the Memorial building at 8 p. m. Friday. At that time E. L. Dakin, Ohio State university specialist, and Ray Wiseman of the Ohio Bureau of Markets, are expected to speak.

1 Killed, 2 Injured When Trucks Crash

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Nov. 21—William Lovely, 60, Cuyahoga county highway worker, was killed and two other workmen were injured today when a truck-trailer struck a parked highway truck on an overhead south of nearby Bedford on Route 8.

The injured were John O'Neill, whose condition was reported as serious, and Henry Strohmeyer, driver of the highway department vehicle. Paul Dugan, driver of the truck-trailer, escaped uninjured.

The highway workers were cleaning gutters when the truck-trailer, laden with tires, rounded a curve. The collision sent the highway truck forward, striking the workmen. Dugan's vehicle caught fire after the crash.

The Moslem league, second largest political party in India, has endorsed the British white paper of Oct. 17, deferring discussion of India's status until after the war.

The league asked for clarification of some points, however.

Gandhi, revered by millions of Indians, found the British statement unacceptable and demanded "a declaration to free India from bondage."

Governments Resign

Of the 11 provincial governments, the eight dominated by his Congress party have resigned in protest against the British refusal. Only in Assam province has the opposition formed a new cabinet. The other seven are being ruled by British provincial governors under emergency orders.

India was committed officially in mid-September to fight on Britain's side against Germany, and Gandhi and his associates have criticized the Nazis. Gandhi asserts, however, "eight provinces out of 11 have said in emphatic language that they cannot participate in the war if it does not mean, among other things, India's complete freedom."

Davich, whose funeral was held today, vowed last September when Germany and Russia partitioned Poland that he would not shave any more, and he kept his vow until death.

Bird Prices Lower

Turkey prices were a big factor in enabling the housewife to trim her Thanksgiving budget without any sacrifice of individual helpings around the feasting table. Wholesale prices in the dressed market range from 6 to 20 per cent lower than a year ago. Ducks were 5 per cent lower. Chickens also were lower.

CITIES LOOKING FOR RELIEF AID

Cleveland, Toledo Pin Hopes On Court and Attorney General

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 21—Their hopes for legislative aid blasted, officials of two hard-pressed Ohio cities turned today to the attorney general and the supreme court in their quest for money to replenish empty relief coffers.

For the fourth time in less than three months, Gov. John W. Bricker told representatives of Cleveland, Toledo and three other cities yesterday that he would not call the general assembly into special session to enact new relief financing measures.

But at the same time, he pointed to cases pending in the supreme court and an awaited opinion from Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert as possible avenues of fresh revenue, and suggested that city officials put to better application means already at their disposal.

Cleveland's Mayor Harold H. Burton, declaring his city would have a $1,000,000 relief deficit by the end of the year, urged a special session be called next week to avert a crisis. He was supported by Toledo officials, who said relief funds had been exhausted since Sept. 15, grocers had cut off credit, and state matching funds were used only for feeding the ill.

Leadership Course To Open Wednesday

The first in a series of leadership training classes for Sunday school teachers will be held at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday at the First Baptist church.

The course is open to all persons in the city interested in becoming better teachers. Rev. S. T. Magann, the Baptist minister, will serve as instructor and the first book to be studied will be "The Book We Teach" by J. B. Weatherspoon.

The course will continue until all work has been completed and diplomas awarded.

Housewives See "Makings" of An Economical Thanksgiving

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—American housewives are swarming shopping counters for the "makings" of one of the most economical holiday spreads they've assembled in five years.

In contrast with home makers in Europe who carry ration cards, American women with bulging Thanksgiving dinner budgets found ample stocks on grocers' and butchers' shelves today at prices generally as low or lower than in any similar period since 1934.

A survey of Chicago wholesale and retail markets showed housewives can satisfy Thursday's menu requirements today or tomorrow (a week hence in some states) at about the same prices paid a year ago. Some items, headed by the roasted bird in the center of the table, were lower.

Wholesale prices in the dressed market range from 6 to 20 per cent lower than a year ago. Ducks were 5 per cent lower. Chickens also were lower.

Before Thanksgiving day in 1937 food costs were at their highest levels in the past decade. There was a sharp slump immediately thereafter in sympathy with general business conditions and after some recovery late in 1938 there was another downturn earlier this year.

Private surveys showed that at mid-November wholesale food prices were the lowest in more than a month. The department of labor's wholesale food price index early this month stood at 72.3 compared with 72.9 a year ago.

Such items as eggs, lard, sugar and coffee were lower. Butter, potatoes, flour and some fruits were slightly higher.

GRANGE DRAFTS TRADE PROPOSAL

Approves Creation of Non-Partisan Unit To Regulate Imports And Exports

(By Associated Press)
PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 21—Creation of a non-partisan body with broad power to regulate imports and exports was proposed today by the foreign relations committee of the National Grange.

The proposal was placed before the organization's 71st annual convention in the form of a resolution which also urged Congress to terminate trade agreements now in force or pending under the reciprocal trade act.

Contending the trade agreements and the most favored nation clause had increased foreign competition for American farmers, the committee expressed opposition to renewal of the trade act upon its expiration in June, 1940.

The proposed trade board would be responsible to Congress and "broadly representative of all American producing and consuming interests, properly co-ordinated with the tariff commission, with powers to regulate imports and exports within prescribed limitations and with power to promote and encourage exchanges of goods advantageous to the American people."

More Than 40 County Farms Raise Turkeys

LISBON, Nov. 21—Although not strictly a turkey producing section, Columbiana county does have more than 40 turkey raisers, with flocks ranging from a half dozen fowls to flocks of nearly 1,000 birds which more than supply the county markets. Many coops are also trucked to Youngstown and Pittsburgh markets, while others are marketed through the Northeastern Poultry Co-operative association at their warehouse near Columbiana.

The difficulty of raising turkeys, which require constant care while young, has greatly curtailed the industry in this county. However, some farmers have learned the secret of raising flocks without great losses of birds.

The larger growers in the county include the Samuel Stock farm near Homeworth, Willis Hull and Floyd Hull of near Summitville, Edwin King of Hanover township, John Cooper of Wayne township, Frank Stoffer of Salem township, and J. H. Huston of near Calcutta.

Held After Crash

CO-ED ESCAPES GUN DISCHARGE

Youth Arrested After Attempting To Take Life of Girl, 20

(By Associated Press)
OXFORD, Nov. 21—Homer Williams, 24, a hopeful poet and a crack rifle shot, was held for arraignment today on charges of firing five times at a pretty Miami university co-ed.

Officer Harry Spencer said Williams admitted he laid in wait on the campus for Maxine Edwards, 20-year-old Junior, and fired when she ignored his remarks to her. She dodged into a hedge and escaped unhurt into her dormitory.

Charged with shooting with intent to kill, Williams attempted to hang himself in his cell last night after writing two confessions. Spencer said. The officer quoted Williams as saying he had brooded over the girl's refusal to see him.

Spencer and Mayor Vernon Puley said they rejected the first confession because Williams made it too dramatic.

Spencer said Williams, armed with a small-caliber repeating rifle and also a sawed-off shotgun stuffed in his trousers, waited for Miss Edwards at the entrance to the football stadium yesterday afternoon.

After the shooting, Williams walked to the town hall and surrendered.

The mayor said the confession gave this story:

Williams had known Miss Edwards about a year. They were drawn together because of his literary ambitions, although he worked in a village restaurant.

Threatened Her

Her parents disapproved of him and he threatened her. University officials, ordered him to leave town. He went to Cincinnati and worked his way to New Orleans and Texas on river towboats, returning a week ago with a full red beard. She refused to see him and he decided to leave again, but as he started to hitch hike Saturday, he saw her and thought she was going to a football game with another boy.

He brooded Saturday and Sunday, then wrote his own mother and Miss Edwards that he planned to kill the girl and then himself.

Russia Claims Hold On Rule of Baltic

MOSCOW, Nov. 21—Soviet Russia disclosed today that her Baltic fleet is holding large scale maneuvers from newly won bases in TGT area. At the same time she warned Finland that nothing "will ever break our decision to establish a strong peace all over the Finnish gulf."

The warning was voiced by Admiral V. Tributz commander of the Baltic fleet, in an article in the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist youth league.

Tributz declared that the Soviet fleet now was in command of the Baltic with the acquisition of bases from Estonia and Latvia. He said the Baltic fleet, previously landlocked in the Gulf of Finland by winter ice, now could navigate throughout the year.

MAPS CAMPAIGN IN RETALIATION FOR 'MINE WAR'

Chamberlain Announces Order Will Be Issued Soon

MINE SWEEPER IS SUNK TODAY

"Ruthless Brutality of German Methods" Hit By Premier

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 21—Great Britain has decided to seize exports of German ownership or origin on the high seas, Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today in retaliation for what he called "many violations of international law and the ruthless brutality of German methods."

As Chamberlain made this announcement in the house of commons, attributing to German mines the heavy merchant ship losses off the British east coast of the past few days, another ship, believed to be the 11,930-ton Japanese passenger liner Terukuni Maru, was sunk off the east coast.

Mine Sweeper Sunk

Today a British mine-sweeping trawler, the Mastiff, was added to the toll, becoming Britain's sixth admitted naval loss of the war.

Chamberlain explained that under international law if unanchored mines are used they should become harmless in one hour, the most, after those who laid them lost control of them. He said that none of these provisions had been observed by Germany in laying the mines which Britain considers the cause of recent ship losses.

(Germany has denied that her mines were responsible for the sinking of the Simon Bolivar.)

After recounting the loss of more than 10 ships, both British and neutral, and many lives during the past six days, Chamberlain said:

"I may remind the house that in the last war, as a measure of justified reprisals for submarine attacks on merchant ships, the exports of German origin or ownership were made subject to seizure on the high seas."

Will Issue Order Soon

"Many violations of international law and the ruthless brutality of German methods have decided us to follow a similar course now, and an order in council will shortly be issued giving effect to this decision."

Cheers greeted the statement. This step means that Britain will seek to shut off Germany's export trade, from which she acquires for exchange, as well as the flow of imports to Germany.

At about the same time that the admiralty was announcing the loss of the minesweeping trawler Mastiff, the air ministry reported that an invading German warplane had been shot down in an engagement with Royal Air Force planes over the east coast today.

Couple Will Wed In Jail at Lisbon

LISBON, Nov. 21—Iron bars do not a prison make.

Happy to be near each other, yet wishing that their six month jail sentences were at an end, Charles Miller, 26, and Sara O'Brien, 22, of Muncie, Ind., were given permission today to make application for a marriage license.

Brought into probate court by a deputy sheriff, the couple signed their marriage application and decided to wait—that's all they've been doing, anyway—five days and then be married in a "quiet ceremony" in the jail.

Miller and Miss O'Brien, who signed her name as Sara O. Bryant on the marriage application, were committed to the county jail Oct. 10 when they pleaded guilty to grand jury indictments charging them with assault and battery.

Their arrest was the aftermath of a cutting scrape last August in East Liverpool where the couple had been visiting relatives.

Initial charges of cutting with intent to wound were amended to that of

BLOCKADING BRITISH

Comparative progress in naval blockade, looming larger every day as the probable turning point of Europe's war, is described without comment by the U. S. state department's declaration that 33 of 48 American ships accosted by belligerent powers since Sept. 1 were accountable to Great Britain, 10 to France, four to Germany, and one to an unidentified cruiser in South American waters.

If it be assumed that Germany had the strongest incentive of the three countries to examine and intern, U. S. ships, most of which were bound for British and French ports, its inability to do so furnishes a clue to its weakness in the naval blockade. With no surface fleet of consequence—with nothing but submarines and planes to carry on its blockade against Britain—Germany is at a tremendous disadvantage.

Americans with long memories are reminded that in the World war, British thoroughness in carrying on its blockade of Germany was carried out largely at the expense of the United States. Until Germany began unrestricted submarine warfare, American resentment of British denial of freedom of the seas was even stronger than its resentment of German denial of the same right. The British were nothing if not realistic about blockade 25 years ago, and the record indicates they would have continued the same tactics if the United States hadn't voluntarily withdrawn its shipping from combat areas.

NO HORSE AND BUGGY

American Medical association's "platform," built to offset the political push against doctors, is more important for what it implies than what it says. Doctors aren't going to be caught napping in the big push for state control of their affairs.

As a professional group, doctors believe the best way to meet what they consider a threat to their usefulness is to make constructive suggestions. Unlike businessmen, who seemed willing to stand criticism without doing anything about it, doctors are interested in robbing critics of their sting before extensive damage is done. This policy has been sold widely to members of the medical profession.

Most of them either belong to American Medical association, or are willing to let it represent them. They have no intention of being victimized by politicians for want of professional unity. For every program offered by a politician they will offer one, or perhaps two. In an age of political streamlining, they are going to give up the horse and buggy, even though clinging to the ideal of service it symbolized. They look forward to an era of wider usefulness, not because of laws passed to get control of their affairs, but because they intend to make passage of laws needless by voluntary action.

FUNNY STUFF

The President's laugh at the expense of correspondents who sniffed for hidden significance in his obvious remark about being on hand for dedication of the Jefferson memorial in January, 1941, comes from way down deep. He had the newshawks in a ludicrous position. Everything about the third term suspense is ludicrous, including the idea itself.

News being what it is—none too plentiful—its gatherers must be as alert as mice at a cat show. They mustn't take any chances of being caught napping, particularly where hints about a third term are concerned. Everything Mr. Roosevelt says or does must be analyzed. The news must flow on.

If the President buys a cutaway coat, a new plug hat, checks off the number 3 in a list of figures, sneezes more than twice, looks cross-eyed at a third termite skulking in the woodwork, or does anything that might mean he is thinking of staying on in Washington, that's news.

If he said he wasn't going to run again, furthermore, it would be news thereafter whenever he did something indicating he might change his mind. His position is just as ludicrous as the admittedly goofy position of the newspapermen, but they can't laugh at him. All they can do is tell the country he's laughing at them. Some fun.

HORSE OF ANOTHER COLOR

Always on the lookout for information straight from the horse's mouth, as they say in tipstering business, this column whispered "Psst!" and pointed a finger at Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles when he told St. Louis bankers the other day about tax reform. Here, it seemed, was a man spilling the inside plans of the administration—giving the tipoff on tax policy—leaning in the direction the play was going to go.

But John W. Hanes, acting treasury secretary in the absence of Henry Morgenthau, and a gentleman who thinks Mr. Eccles' idea about slapping on more taxes to raise more money for spending is strictly a flat tire, has denied stoutly that the chairman of the federal reserve board was speaking for anyone but himself. He, himself, Mr. Hanes implies, is the only one giving information straight from the horse's mouth.

That makes it a tie. The administration intends to boost taxes or doesn't intend to boost taxes. Taxpayers can pay their nickels and take their choice.

EVENTS MOVE rapidly toward ambitious goals on this day, judging by the benefic chain of planetary configurations. These promise conspicuous achievement in affiliation with large and important groups and organizations, where innovation, fresh methods and high ideals hold sway. The young and progressive may attain high place, possibly by means of quick intuitions or insight into life issues of public, financial or educational importance.

These whose birthday it is will find themselves under highly stimulated, expansive and liberal urges during the year, with many high ideals, noble purposes and ambitious objectives pushed to pleasant and powerful culminations. Public, group and idealistic issues seem involved, and there is a prospect of substantial co-operation from powerful interests.

A child born on this day may be brilliant and adaptable to many splendid achievements in life through its alertness, keen grasp and intuitions. It may have liberal, generous and humanitarian ideals, possibly lifting it to public service and popularity.

TARIFF ISSUE RETURNS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The tariff promises to climb back upon the fence dividing the two parties in 1940 and sit there among the important issues pretty much as it did for over a century before reciprocal trade agreements shoved it off.

It will look a little younger and its face will have been lifted by the operations of the last few years, but down under the tweedy vest will beat the same old heart. And, just as of old, not all Democrats will agree with the Democratic stand; some Republicans will back away from the Republican position.

A dispute in congress will intervene. The authority by which Secretary Hull has been making trade agreements expires next year. If the policy is to continue and new agreements are to be made with more foreign nations, a bill extending those powers must be enacted.

Some Democrats have argued that the best policy would be for the administration to allow this proposal to be set aside, along with taxes, until after the election, thereby helping to limit the field of dispute in the next campaign.

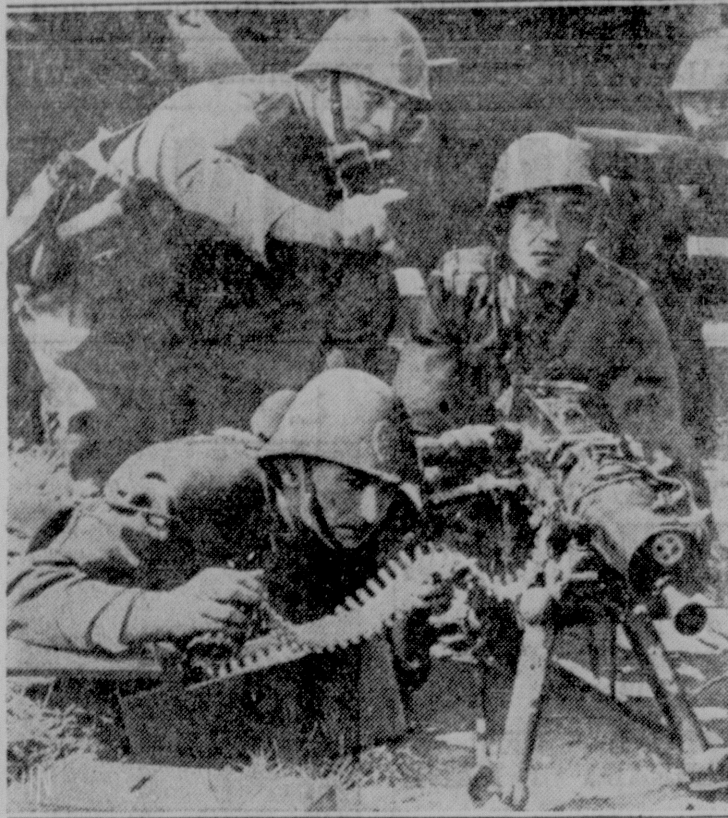

If this were done, the power to make new agreements would simply lapse. The agreements now in effect would continue. The issue can be raised in congress again in 1941.

Yet, it is doubtful that Secretary Hull would allow his pet economic theory to be shut up in a congressional closet for a year. His affection for the pet would be one reason.

Moreover, a good fight always enlivens interest in a man. It is not likely that anyone who has been spoken of highly as a Democratic presidential possibility would forget that. A running battle over trade agreements, in which the secretary would be depicted by his backers as a man contending for a modern way of tearing down international trade barriers and fostering friendship among nations, would not be calculated to do his chances any great harm.

Beyond this, the Republicans are anxious to air the issue. Some of the country's most powerful high pressure organizations, operating in both farm and industrial fields, are walloping the trade agreements policy.

Doctor Discusses Medicine
Chest Drugs, Cold Vaccines

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
What to Put in Medicine Chest

WHAT drugs are recommended to be placed in the family medicine chest?

Dr. Reginald Fitz tells us in a little book called "Health at 50," issued by the Harvard University Press, that the hospitals no longer use saline purgatives, castor oil or strong cathartic pills in large quantities because there have been too many cases of ruptured appendix from their use. For an occasional or regular purgative, mineral oil is recommended.

Aspirin tablets are usually included because they have a variety of uses for headache, muscle pains, colds and even for insomnia. A powder combination of sodium bicarbonate and magnesium oxide is of proved value in overcoming attacks of indigestion due to hyperacidity of the stomach. A sedative in the form of luminal or sodium barbiturate is quite useful. Under most circumstances it is safe for occasional insomnia or nervousness.

An antiseptic, either 70 per cent alcohol or tincture of iodine, or both, a package of sterile gauze and adhesive tape bandage and a roller bandage are sine qua non. Certain ointments are included for minor burns. Nose drops and paregoric are optional.

Because it is so common, some remedy for athlete's foot should be included. Preventing Colds With Vaccines. Has any attempt been made to prevent the common cold by using the virus vaccine?

The usual vaccines against the common cold are the organisms that are found somewhat late in the course of the infection. These certainly do little, if any, good.

In 1914 Kruse advanced the theory that colds are due not to any of the bacteria that we can see, but to a filterable virus. He produced colds in healthy volunteers with filtered nasal secretions from cold-ridden persons.

Since the work of Dochez was reported in 1938, it has been generally agreed that the filterable virus is the cause. Dochez hoped to be able to create an active immunity in man with the cold virus, but up to now there has been little success attending the efforts. If the virus is given by hypodermic, it is safe but produces very little immunity. If it is given locally in the nose, it may cause a cold rather than cure one, so we are about where we were before they discovered the virus origin of colds.

NEW PLANIARIUM

Editor Salem News:
It was my pleasure to visit the new planarium in Pittsburgh the past week. It occurred to me that the people of Salem and vicinity might be interested in learning something about the institution's program and what one can see there. The planarium was presented to the city as an addition to the Allegheny observatory by Mr. Buhl at a cost of over one million dollars.

It is easily located from Salem. If you go into the city over Route 51, crossing Point bridges continue up Penn ave., to the first bridge, crossing in to Allegheny on your left. After crossing the bridge continue straight on north to the Bogs & Buhl department store and the planarium is just across the street.

Surrounding the planetary hall are numerous other halls designated as halls of science and arts, in which are a great many exhibits that are related to either time, space, or the universe, and on which one may test his knowledge or skill in the arts or sciences.

One which the ladies might be interested in, illustrates the specific gravities of the different planetary bodies. If you weigh 120 lbs and you step on the Eros scale you find you only weigh one and three fifths ounces. Eros is the largest of the known Asteroids. Its orbit is between Mars and Jupiter.

Stepping on the Moon scale you will register one pound nine ounces, and that's as far as you will want to go for on the Jupiter scale you will weigh 300 lbs and on the Sun 2810 lbs.

Entrance to these halls is free to the public every day from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. The shows are highly dramatic and beautiful. Before the show starts the doors are closed that there be no interruptions.

The hall is circular and around the frieze is a panoramic picture of the city of Pittsburgh. There are no lights below the frieze, only the reflected subdued lights of the dome of the planarium furnish light.

The lecturer begins his preliminary talk, beautiful subdued organ music playing. The end of a day is near, the twilight comes, then the deepening darkness. The music is louder and up from the floor in the center of the room is seen rising quietly, majestically, the thing we have been looking for, the projector.

In its innards somewhere is the loud-speaker bringing the music we hear. There is just light enough to see it come to rest, then the darkness deepens, a few stars are

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

NEVER MIND if your native haunt is habitually covered with palm trees instead of tamaracs, for Americans travel, and being a mermaid in Miami doesn't keep one from doubling as a snow queen at Sun Valley or Lake Placid. ## WIDOWERS ARE ON RARE LIST

Scarcity in Nation Is Reported by National Club Head

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Nov. 21.—The widowers can stop blushing everytime a good looking widow smiles at them. Widowers are in demand in this land of the free.
The paucity of widowers was described by Mrs. Nelle Brook Stull of Elyria, O., president of the National Widows and Widowers club, which claims a membership of 250,000 marriageable Americans.

In California there is an acute shortage of widowers, Mrs. Stull explained. Los Angeles has seven widows to one widower. Other states have a smaller ratio.

Texas is one of the few states where widow and widowers are about evenly divided.
"Of course," explained Mrs. Stull, who is married to a steel executive, "every woman wants to get married. I speak from my experience with them. They start by telling me what kind of husband they want, but wind up by taking what they can get, usually."

"Widowers seek interviews, but they are more shy than the widows. They get out of the room as soon as they can and try to avoid being seen."

Usually a widower expects a 50-50

"It is usually more successful for a widower to marry a widow for his second wife. Persons who have been married before are not looking for so much romance."

INTER-COLLEGE RADIO PLANNED

Work to Establish First Network of Its Kind in Country

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—New England college students are working to establish the first intercollegiate radio broadcasting system in the country.

Brown university already has a radio station and if present plans materialize, there soon will be a leased wire network linking Harvard, Brown, Dartmouth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Wesleyan.

Other colleges and universities are invited to join the system, which not only will provide entertainment for listeners and experience for radio-minded students, but also will promote "friendly contacts" between the institutions participating.

Tiny Network
The network idea grew from Brown's student-owned and operated intramural system, conceived by George Abraham of New York in his freshman year. He is now a senior.

The Brown radio system consists of a central control room, several elaborate sound-proof studios and 26 dormitory and fraternity house stations where programs originate. Broadcasts are carried over 30,000 feet of wire strung through steam tunnels into dormitories and houses, but the power used is so small that the programs can only be heard within a few feet of the transmission lines. The network needs no license.

A typical day's broadcasting schedule at Brown included a recorded presentation of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, a bridge lecture, a comedy skit, an interview with football coach "Tuss" McLaughry, speeches from a dinner of the Brown Christian association and campus news reports.

To Be An Actor, Simply Be Yourself Is Advice Of Hollywood Film Star

(By International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.— "If you want to be an actor, don't act. Be yourself."

It's Ralph Bellamy's paradox. He gave the same advice several years ago to youngsters who joined the stock company he once owned and operated in Madison, Wis., and he still reiterates it when queried by hopeful thespians.

The actor contends that a young player,aping an established and proven star is only aping some one, whereas if he remained himself, he would at least be individual. Bellamy believes that individuality is a cardinal virtue, that people are judged by what they are, not what they pretend to be.

The finest praise he ever heard accorded an actor came after a preview recently when a member of the audience, leaving the theater, remarked, "He was so natural. Why, he wasn't even acting."

Artist Is An Individual
"Every great artist has also been markedly individual," Bellamy declared. "A carbon copy is never comparable to an original and even a poor original carries more prestige than a good carbon copy."

"Some of the top-ranking actors of the stage and screen have capitalized on physical peculiarities to win tremendous popularity. "Whether a rasping voice, trick eyes or bizarre mannerisms, they became tools which carved a career."

"At the time, every effort was being made to have Cary Grant emulate a popular star," Bellamy related. "Grant rebelled and, although he had a tough time for a while, he eventually proved that individuality is far more important than standardization."

Bellamy also called attention to Rosalind Russell, her ability to play a wide variety of roles and play them naturally because she brought so much of her own personality into every character she created.

Whispering Girl At E. Liverpool Shouts with Joy

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—If Barbara Craven wants to shout and yell at home from morning to night it will be all right with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craven.

No matter how much vocalizing Barbara does it will be a joyful contrast for the parents for until the other day the 18-year-old East Liverpool High school graduate was not able to speak above a whisper for four years.

But Barbara's full, rich, young woman's voice has been restored and the Craven household is happy again.

And it was such a glad surprise for the mother that she was almost made speechless herself when she picked up the 'phone the other day and heard her daughter speak distinctly and loudly.

Salem And Alliance Prepare For 43rd Annual Grid Battle

QUAKERS AGAIN FACE TASK OF STOPPING HUME

Ancient Rivals Clash At 2:30 P. M. Thursday At Stadium

In the 43rd renewal of one of the oldest gridiron series in the state, Salem and Alliance High school teams will collide Thursday afternoon at Reilly stadium. It will be the final game of the season for both teams.

Faculty Manager Fred Cope today announced the gates will open at 1:15. The game will get under way at 2:30.

The officials will be Russell Rupp of Lebanon Valley, Dr. Dave Reese of Denison, Russ Finsterwald of Ohio university and Clayton Schlemmer of Akron U., all of whom, says Manager Cope, have worked in the Big Ten.

Alliance Leads in letorics

Forty-two times the gridiron warriors of Salem and Alliance have battled. Out of that list have come 21 victories for the Quakers, 15 for the Quakers, and six of them have ended in deadlock.

The Aviators will come to Salem with a record slightly better than that of the Quakers. In eight engagements to date the Stark count has won six and lost two. Salem has won five, lost two and tied two.

They defeated Minerva in the opener, 38 to 0, and then registered victories over Bellevue, 49 to 0; Grove City, 27 to 0. Cleveland John Hay, 6 to 0; Barberton, 40 to 0; Jamestown, N. Y., 31 to 6.

For the debut of the season, the records show they were swamped by Massillon, 47 to 0, although a number of other Ohio and Pennsylvania scholastic eleven have suffered similar fates.

That is the only black mark to date on the Alliance record. Their annual scuffle with Canton McKinley ended in a scoreless deadlock with the Aviators turning in one of their best performances of the season.

"Stop Hume!"

A year ago the Quakers faced their ancient rivals at Mt. Union stadium in Alliance. "Stop Hume!" was the battle cry.

The night before the game, the skies let loose a flood of snow which, continuing Thanksgiving day, just about stopped everything in the way of good football but Hume managed to get loose for two touchdowns.

So the battle cry again, this year is "Stop Hume!"

Coach Carl Schroeder and his Quakers are working out secretly this week, with spectators barred from the practice field. Similar precautions are being observed by Coach Wilcoxen at Alliance.

Barons To Face Eastern Rivals

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21.—New Haven Eagles and Syracuse Stars make their first trip of the season to Cleveland this week as the Barons attempt to regain first place in the hockey standings.

The Eagles battle the Barons on Wednesday night and the Stars mix with the local teens on Saturday evening. Both games are at the Cleveland Arena.

Cleveland lost its first place tie over the weekend. They deadlocked the Indianapolis Capitals at the Arena Saturday, 1-1, but dropped a 3-0 decision to the fast-skating Hoosiers at Indianapolis on Sunday.

It will be "old home week" for both New Haven and Syracuse as no less than five players on the respective rosters once displayed their wares in Baron uniforms. In the New Haven lineup Wednesday will be George Patterson and Earl Roche.

Patterson scored the goal that beat Philadelphia, 1-0, in the final championship game last spring that gave Cleveland the title. Roche performed for Cleveland for several seasons. Both are veterans of the ice.

Defenseman Art Berlett and Harry (Yip) Foster and Goalie Bill Beveridge are the former Clevelanders who appear with the Syracuse Stars on Saturday. Berlett and Foster played on the local club last season. Although Beveridge was Cleveland property he never actually played for the Barons.

Ossie Asmundson, Cleveland center, who suffered a badly cut left eye a week ago, is expected to rejoin the team in one of the two games. His place against Indianapolis was taken by Bob Blake.

Minerva Captures Tri-County Crown For 3rd Straight Time

ALLIANCE, Nov. 21.—When Minerva defeated Boardman, 7-0, Saturday and won the Tri-County league football championship, it annexed the loop laurels for the third time. Minerva is the first school to nail the crown three times. Lisbon won titles 1933 and 1934.

Minerva finished the campaign with a record of eight victories, one defeat, a loss to Alliance in the curtain-raiser and one tie. Minerva was not beaten in league competition, racking up five wins and a deadlock.

By drubbing Lisbon in its final game, 39-0, Columbiana finished as runnerup in the Tri-County league race.

Office Equipment For Dials Complete

Installation of the central office equipment in the new telephone building at 165 N. Lundy street has been completed by workmen for the Western Electric company, manufacturing unit of the Bell system, in preparation for the advent of dial telephone service in Salem.

With the $155,000 worth of equipment; officially turned over to them, plant employees of the Ohio Bell Telephone company have started checking every one of the thousands of connections in the new exchange.

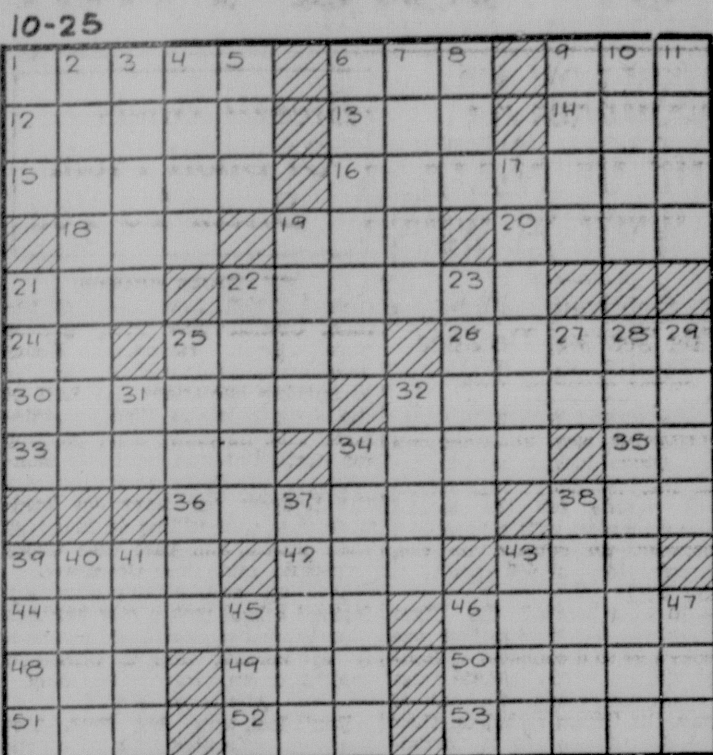

"Each piece of apparatus was engineered to fit local needs," said Carl F. Willman, Ohio Bell commercial manager.

"Our men are checking all subscribers' lines to make sure that they will be in perfect condition at the time of the change to dial operation."

Installation of the central office equipment required 20 weeks. The number of Western Electric men who handled it varied with a maximum of 23 expert installers on the job at one time.

"KNIGHT ERRANT"

by Jack McDonald

CHAPTER XVI

Heather passed Slim and Snapper, walking toward the paddock. It was with almost a dull dread that she awaited post time for Knight Errant's race, the eleventh of his pathetic career.

In his earlier races Heather's anticipation had been almost overwhelming. But her coil had been beaten so many times now that she had little hope of victory.

She was wondering if there might be some truth in what Slim had told her about Bassitt betting on another horse in today's race against Knight Errant.

She stood by the paddock railing to see Knight Errant being led from the receiving barn to the runway for saddling.

Heather decided that she would go inside and hand him a few cubes of sugar. Bassitt arrived in the paddock a moment later. He scowled, seeing Heather watching Draper readjust a tie strap around the colt's bit. Bassitt had something to say to Draper alone. He wished Heather would go away.

But Heather stood, watching her Knight Errant, his handsome head down, his eyes anxious, as if apologizing to her for his many failures.

From the grandstand ramp Slim took heart as he saw Heather standing by her colt, and Bassitt, fidgeting around, trying to hurry her away. Slim scribbled a note on the back of an old envelope. He gave it to an usher to take down to "that girl in red standing by the horse in the number six stall, and don't tell her where you got it."

Heather looked at the undressed, unsigned note and read: "You can help Knight Errant win today by staying in the paddock until post time, so Bassitt cannot talk to Draper alone."

Heather looked puzzled. Her first impulse was to show it to Bassitt, but after a second's thought she crumpled the note and put it away in her white purse.

Bassitt was fuming. It was almost post time. If he could only think of some fool errand to send Heather on, to get her away from Draper and the horse.

"Say, Miss, I plumb forgot to bring along that new set of blinkers I was going to use on Knight Errant today," he was telling her a moment later.

"Snoppose you skim over to the tack room and ask Joe for 'em. I just got time to saddle up. The colt might win with them blinkers on."

Happy in the thought she was really doing something to contribute to a Knight Errant victory, Heather hurried off, forgetting all about the anonymous warning note.

The moment she left, Bassitt looked about him to see that no paddock inspectors were snooping around.

"Now kid, give him an easy race," he told Draper in a low voice. "He ain't quite up to a winning effort."

And Bassitt lowered his voice again, to a hoarse whisper.

"Be careful, kid, the judges been watching you awful close lately, particularly when you been riding this here colt of Coronado's."

Draper had always followed Bassitt's instructions to the letter.

Slim made his way through the crowd flooding about the paddock. He leaned over the fence as far as he dared in an attempt to catch even snatches of their conversation. It was useless, as useless as attempting to read the expression on the plump, rosy face of the jockey, Dimples Draper.

But when Bassitt slapped Draper over the back and lifted the little fellow up to the stirrups for the parade to the post with the audible reminder, "Remember what I told you, kid," Slim concluded, it was just a case of which person Draper listened to last.

Slim was certain his ruse had failed. The lights on the big tote board across the Bay Meadows track blinked. When they flashed on again with the last minute figures they showed a lump sum of $5,000 more in the win pool on Lightning Bug.

"That's Charlie Bassitt's money coming back from Jersey," Slim told Snapper in disgust. "Kline was right. The eastern bookies are dumping it right back into the Bay Meadows mutuels. They want none of Bassitt's money, and I don't blame 'em. They should know there's something fishy about it every time Bassitt bets at 'em."

"If they knew what we know, Slim, they'd let Bassitt bet at 'em until the cows come home," chirped Snapper. "I'll bet they wish they had after this race is over."

Searching anxiously for a glance of betrayal or confirmation, Snapper tried to get the eye of Dimples Draper as the baby-faced rider passed them, down by the rail, on the way to the post.

"Draper has his mind on his riding today," chuckled Snapper. "At least, he isn't the showoff for his girl in the grandstand."

"He's probably thinking of riding for the Colonel this summer," Slim grinned.

Knight Errant had opened at 2½ to 1 in the morning line prices, but the "mysterious" last-minute play on Lightning Bug had skyrocketed the odds on Heather's colt to 5 to 1.

Breathless from her last-minute wild goose chase to the tack room for the new set of blinkers, Bassitt said he had forgotten, but which Joe, the stable boy, didn't know anything about, Heather returned to the clubhouse just in time to see her colt enter the starting gate.

At the start, Knight Errant left the gate as if he had been shot out of a big cannon! But just behind him, pressing, was Lightning Bug, and they clattered down the backstretch it looked like a nip and tuck battle between the two. The rest of the field was far back.

At the far turn Draper let out a wrap and simultaneously started slashing away like a demon on Knight Errant's flanks.

Slim took the glasses from his eyes for an instant, nudged Snapper, and the pair exchanged grins.

Then he trained his powerful lenses back on the black colt. He was leading by a narrow margin, Draper flailing away. The boy was all hands as he held Knight Errant's head up with the reins in his left hand, his right flapping up and down like a pump handle, bringing the whip down, steady and rhythmic, with every other stride his mount took.

"He's abusing him!" Heather thought frantically as she watched Dimples Draper ride her colt as he had never ridden him before.

But she saw, too, that Knight Errant did not object to being rushed along in this manner, for with each lash of the whip, instead of sulking, he shot forward with a new willingness that was obvious even to the untrained eye.

"He's knocked on that colt a hundred times in three-eighths of a mile!" Slim said excitedly, and now he was sure that the ruse had worked. Already the colt was widening on his field as they romped into the stretch.

Bassitt stood nearby, biding on his cigar like a wild man. There was no mistaking in his mind now. "The dirty little doublecrosser," he was thinking of Draper.

Seventy yards from the finish, Draper and Knight Errant were out in front by as far as you could shoot a green apricot out of a sling-shot.

But Draper was riding for that job with the Colonel. He was still banging on the colt's flanks. Draper was taking no chances.

He let his mount have a final belt with the bat as they crossed the finish line, a couple of fence posts ahead of Lightning Bug in second place.

Fifteen lengths! That was the margin by which he beat Lightning Bug, as Jimmy Murphy, the form chart caller, gauged it.

"Well, we sure switched the dice on Bassitt that time," Snapper crowed, handslapping Slim with a lusty whack.

And though Slim was $5,000 to the good on the race, more folding money than he had seen in a long time, he had that faraway look in his eye.

"Slim, who'd you think up that gag on Draper for, Flo or that Little Red Riding Hood who owns Knight Errant?" Snapper asked.

"Thinking for myself," replied Slim quite calmly.

But his debonair airs did not fool Snapper.

"I'm thinking it was a pretty mean trick we pulled on that little kid, Draper, though," Slim went on thoughtfully. "Bassitt will never hold still for a rider dumping him like Draper did today."

Her Knight Errant had won a race! His first victory! Heather was as bewildered this day as that January afternoon at Santa Anita when Knight Errant had lost his first race.

Unknowing, she dropped her $10 mutuel ticket on Knight Errant.

"Why, Heather, isn't that a winning ticket?" asked a friend in an adjoining box.

Heather hastily reclaimed her ticket, blushing.

"It's a habit I've formed, dropping ping mutuel tickets on Knight Errant after a race. Now I'll have to form a new habit."

She was laughing, but her eyes were stary as she watched a new Knight Errant prancing back to the judges' stand, his ears pricking, new life in his step, hot nostrils quivering with excitement and tail switching briskly in the thrill of his first victory. Gone were the leaden hooves and forlorn eyes of defeat.

"He knows!" thrilled Heather. He's like Coronado—he knows when he's won."

Bassitt, talking to Draper in the paddock before the race, had promised the boy he would be at the judges' stand waiting for him afterward, to deliver a mock tongue lashing about the boy's bad ride.

But the lecture was of a far different nature than Bassitt had contemplated, and it was in private.

"You're fired!" was his first blast at Draper.

FRESNO, Cal. — Even if they were newlyweds, Police Judge Melvin K. Gibbs sentenced the groom to 30 days in jail and the bride to five days in jail for stopping their automobile in a downtown intersection and causing a traffic jam while they embraced.

Theatre Attractions

A clever comedy, well played and directed, "What a Life", brings Jackie Cooper and Betty Field to the State tonight and Wednesday in a story of a boy whose good intention brought him nothing but trouble.

John Howard, Janice Logan, Lionel Stander, Hedda Hopper and Vaughan Glaser, who played in the stage version of the story which was a hit of several seasons ago, are seen in supporting roles.

The story, which has been heard serially over the radio, is adapted for the screen, continuing the adventures of Henry Aldrich and his high school sweetheart.

Cooper takes his first top-flight comedy role in his portrayal of the hardluck youngster whose ability to get into trouble is matched only by his excuse-making genius for getting out of it.

The Grand will feature an aviation drama, "20,000 Men a Year", for the Wednesday and Thursday attraction. Randolph Scott, Preston Foster, Kane Richmond, Margaret Lindsay, Mary Healy and Maxie Rosenbloom have the leading roles in the story of the thousands of American college graduates who are taking to the sky in the Civil Aeronautics Authority program for training civilian fliers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Thieves stole 250 white leghorn chickens from the Poor Farm. Deputies, checking by telephone, were told by a feminine voice that it wasn't the poor farm. It was the Poor farm. "It is the farm of George L. Poor," the voice explained.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The University of Michigan passed this regulation in 1880: "Presents to the officers of the university from the students or any class of them are prohibited and officers are requested decline their acceptance, if tendered."
